FIRE COMPANIES ADOPT A SECRET CALLING CODE

No Calls to Be Answered in Future to Outlying Towns Unless Authorized

TO PREVENT UNNECESSARY RUNS

At a recent conference held between the fire chiefs of Monongahela Donora, Monessen and Charleroi, a secret code was arranged, whereby emergency calls will be made only in case of necessity, and only this emergency call will be answered in time of fires in any one of these localities.

It has been the custom in the past for the fire departments of these communities to answer summons sent by any one when their services were deemed necessary, and the companies have always given prompt attention to these calls. Unfortunately, however, it has frequently happened that someone becoming unduly excited sends in a call to adjoining towns, asking for assistance when it was not really needed, causing fire companies to make runs that were not necessary.

This was the case last week when a fire occurred in Monongahela, and calls were sent to Donora. Monessen and Charleroi by some unauthorized person. The companies responded to the call, Donora and Monessen reaching the scene, but Charleroi met with an accident to their truck, when they broke the crank shaft on their engine while passing through Webster.

In order, therefore, to prevent unnecessary calls the chiefs of these several departments deemed it advisable to adopt some secret code, whereby any or all of the different companies can be summoned to any one of the towns needing help, and not to answer any call unless it is in the code decided upon.

The good feeling and spirit of helpfulness manifested between these several fire departments is to be commended, as it gives to the citizens of all these municipalities an additional security against fires which might in the future get beyond the control of any one one of the local companies. At the present time it will be possible to secure the services of five trucks from the four different towns, while Bentleyville can be counted upon to add an additionaal machine should it be necessary to call them.

DAYLIGHT SAVING ATTACKED IN COURT

The daylight saving ordinance which Pittsburg adopted a few years ago, and which was in effect last summer, and which again became effective on Sunday last, was attacked in the Allegheny county courts on Monday. A bill in equity was filed in common pleas court by counsel for a moving picture house in Pittsburg, and the arguments have been set for Thursday.

ORCHESTRA TO GIVE ANNUAL CONCERT

A very interesting program has been arranged by Prof. I. T. Daniel for the sixth annual concert of the Charleroi high school orchestra, to be held at the high school auditorium Friday evening next at eight o'clock. It has been the custom, since the first concert of the organization, practically six years ago, to charge but a nominal fee for admission tickets. This rule will prevail at this concert as it is the desire of the management that the friends of the organization, and they are many, be given an opportunity to hear the work of the orchestra at its best. The program on Friday evening will be sufficiently diversified to appeal to the varied tastes of those who will be in attendance. Among those who will participate will be Miss Winifred Phillips, a freshman, who captured third position in the declamation test held last Saturday at Washington, Pa. under the auspices of W. & J. College in one of the most interesting contests ever held there. She will recite 'Here Comes the Bride," by Bosher, the same selection as captivated her listeners on that occasion. There will be solos by the Misses Dorothy Stroud and Edith Keys and Ornan Morgan, with a violin solo by Miss Edith Jenkins. The Cecilians, a high school semi-chorus of girls, will contribute two selections: 'Morning Invitations," by Veazie, and "Nursery Rhyme Suite" by Constance. A string octette and five numbers by the orchestra, together with a second selection by Miss Phillips, will constitute the remainder of the program. There will be no reserved seats.

Equity Court Decides Suit in Dawson's Favor

In the suit of T. D. Williamson against George W. Dawson in which the plaintiff sought to share in certain profits from a coal sale, the court has handed down an adjudication and decree dismissing the plaintiff's bill.

Mr. Williamson and Mr. Dawson, by purchase, became joint owners of 14 acres and 51 perches of coal in Fayette county, east of Millsboro, the coal being known as their "Millsboro" coal. They paid $20,000 for the tract, each paying half the consideration.

Mr. Williamson, Mr. Dawson and James Sowden owned a small tract of coal in Charleroi, and in February of 1920 Mr. Dawson and Mr. Sowden went to the office of Mr. Williamson for the purpose of discussing with the latter gentleman the renewal of operations at the Charleroi coal mine, which work had been suspended for a few weeks. At that meeting a difference arose between Dawson and Williamson in regard to the latter's liability as to the equipment of the mine.

The dispute ended in Dawson making a proposition to Williamsan to buy his interest, not only in the Charleroi mine, but also his interest in the Millsboro coal. The deal was consummated and Dawson purchased from Williamson these interests.

It was the negotiatons leading up to and the sale of the Millsboro coal that caused Williamson to file his bill in equity. It was shown in the testimony that Williamson had told Dawson he could have his interest for $10,000 plus the accrued interest and the amount of money advanced to pay the taxes on the coal during the time the two held it jointly, which offer Dawson accepted.

Mr. Williamson based his suit on a certificate signed by Dawson in which the word "Negotiations" appeared, the paper stating that Dawson had not prior to the date, (February 17, 1920) entered into any "negotiations," either verbal or written, for the sale of said coal, any part thereof or interest therein to any person, company, corporation or organization."

At the same time it was shown that both Williamson and Dawson had been negotiating with one Robert L. James for the purchase of the coal, and when the certificate had been presented originally to Dawson to sign he had the word "Negotiations" changed by the stenographer to read any agreement." However, the certificate which Mr. Dawson signed had the word 'negotiations" incorporated, on which Mr. Williamson based his contention for a division of profits of the sale. In his statement Mr. Dawson said he was under the impression the certificate he signed contained the words 'any agreement."

The court, after going fully into the merits of the case, said, first, that the writing, a copy of which is given in the plaintiff's bill, is not a contract nor an agreement it is simply a written certificate that certain representations supposed to have been made orally, were true, and which, if they were not true, would mislead and deceive the plaintiff, T. D. Williamson.

Second, that the testimony in this case is wholly insufficient to justify the court in granting the relief prayed for in the plaintiff's bill, and

Third, that the plaintiff's bill be dismissed at his cost.

CHARLEROI-ELLSWORTH STREET CARS BACK ON STANDARD TIME

Too Much Confusion Resulted from Adoption of Daylight Saving System

MANY COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

Beginning at 5:10 Tuesday morning the Westside Street Railway Company went back to its old schedule on Eastern Standard time, on the Charleroi-Ellsworth Division. This step was taken because of the confusion which the new schedule created among residents of the Maple Creek valley, as well as those of Bentleyville, Ellsworth and communities beyond.

Miners and others working out Maple creek are working on the old time, and as a consequence those who had formerly gone to their work on the 6:25 car in the morning were compelled to wait until the 8:10 under the new arrangement, which caused them to be late. Complaints also came from Bentleyville and Ellsworth, as under the new running time it was impossible for them to conform to Eastern Standard time at home and daylight saving time on the street cars.

Taking everything into consideration the officials of the street car company on Tuesday had notices posted at many points along the line, stating that beginning Wednesday morning, April 27, the former time schedule would be put into effect, the first car leaving Charleroi at 5:10 Eastern Standard time, or one hour slower than daylight saving time.

Confusion in the executive departments of Pittsburgh's city government has been responsible for most of the confusion now existing, and unless the big city can come to some understanding and unanimity of action, the outlying towns are apt to "junk" the new proposition and go back to Eastern Standard. People are demanding uniformity and are entitled to have their wishes respected in this very important matter.

CHANGES MADE IN TRUCK TAX BILL

Motor truck manufacturers and users obtained a compromise from the state on the schedule of taxation for trucks as contained in the Woodruff-Bruckman bill at a hearing held in Harrisburg on Monday afternoon on which the bill was changed to carry increases of 50 to 100 percent over present rates, instead of 80 to 200 per cent.

TWO WERE BURNED IN A SLIGHT FIRE

Two people, a man named George Impele, and a woman named Mrs. Budy were burned in an explosion or fire at a house at Eighth street and Shady avenue, about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. The house, a frame structure is occupied by the Impele and Budy families, but how the accident happened is not exactly known. According to some stories there had been an explosion, while another story told to the police was, that the man in striking a match to light a cigaret had accidentally set fire to Mrs. Budy's hair, and in the excitement of putting it out, both of them were severely burned.

However, this story appears to lack confirmation, as a report from the hospital this morning said the woman's hair was not damaged. She was burned on one side, as well as her arms and hands and face, while the man was badly burned from the waist up. The ambulance was called and both of them taken to the hospital, where it developed that the man's injuries were quite serious.

The fire department was summoned and put out a small fire that was burning, but which did but little damage. It appeared according to firemen, that most of the damage had been done by an explosion of some kind, but what it was they were unable to find out.

Dr. Hill gave first aid to the two people, and then had them removed to the hospital for further treatment.

STOLEN MACHINE FOUND AT AMBRIDGE

The Jordan "Playboy" roadster, stolen from Wilbur Crow, out Maple creek road, one night last week, was recovered on Thursday last at Ambridge. The machine had been left with the engine running, in the yard of a minister, who notified the police. After examining the machine the police notified the Johran Motor company, who in turn got in touch with the L. J. Robertson Company of Charleroi, and in this way the ownership of the machine was established. Beyond a few scratches the machine was not damaged. It appears to be the opinion that the parties who took the machine were from the vicinity of Ambridge, and missing the last car, had appropriated the machine to make the trip home. 275-t4*

VETOES BILL FOR LIENS ON AUTOS

Governor Sproul on Saturday vetoed two bills, one of which would have given persons who furnished materials for storage for motor vehicles or labor on them a lien on the vehicles. The bill was vetoed, the governor said, because "under existing law one having the possession but not the ownership of a piece of personal property, by placing it in the possession of another, can subject it to a lien for storage or for the value of the work on labor alone upon it." The bill, the governor said, would extend the right already established to such an extent that the bill if approved would be unconstitutional.

PRODUCTION OF COAL.

A Geological survey report says that the year 1920 will be a memorable one in the history of the world's coal supply. The prices reached were the highest of modern times, and as usually happens at such a time, the quality of the output had deteriorated. In the last two years of the war, the world's output had risen close to the pre-war level. After the armistice, however, the cessation of munition manufacture and the delay in the resumption of normal business curtailed the demand for coal. Industrial disputes both in Europe and in America closed many mines late in 1919 and further reduced the supply. Thus when in 1920 the world set its face to work again and industrial activity was resumed where resumption was possible, consumers' reserves of fuel proved insufficient and an almost universal feeling of apprehension over the coal supply swept around the world. The reasons for this alarm—lately a thing of the past—became clear when the world's production in 1920 is cast up. Reports received by the United States Geological Survey indicate that the total output in 1920 was about 1,300,000,000 metric tons. This although a great increase over 1919, was still 42,000,000 tons short of the output in 1913, the last year before the Great War.

FOREIGN TRADE.

The export trade of the Philippine Islands for 1920 was greater than the import. Exports were valued at $151,123,856, an increase of $38,006,030 over the preceding year, while imports were valued at $149,438,283, an increase of $30,799,231. The United States occupied first place in both the export and import trade. Cane sugar valued at $39,348,935; cocoanut oil, $23,268,887; Manila Hemp, $20,614,026; and cigars, $10,546,304, were exported to the United States. The total exports to the United States in 1920 amounted to $105,216,263, as compared with $56,652,692 in 1919. Imports from the United States in 1920 were valued at $92,289,778, an increase of $16,798,363 over 1919. Cotton and cotton manufactures, iron and steel, rice, and mineral oils made up a large part of the total. Of the total imports to the Philippines last year 62 per cent came from the United States.

The past winter has been kind not only to poor folk with a scanty supply of costly coal but to the Government's elk herds in the Yellowstone Park. Reports show that the elk are in good condition after an uninterrupted supply of feed, while during the hard winter of 1919-20 many of them starved to death, one herd being reduced from 20,000 to 9,000 head.

In competition with all the literati of Japan Mrs. Charles Burnett, a Tennesseean, has won the Nippon poetry prize which is something like the Nobel award for literature. The poems were submitted anonymously to the number of 17,000. This is the second time that the prize has been won by Mrs. Burnett who has resided in Japan ten years. Evidently she adds to her literary gift a remarkable grasp of a difficult foreign language. It is evident further that the Japanesecommittee was perfectly fair and not a bit chauvinistic in its judgment.

The present depression may, and it may not have reached the bottom, but there is one thing certain and sure, and that is, this country is not standing still. We are on the way somewhere, and when we begin to come back, keep a "lookin' out" or you will be run over.

We hope this time question will soon be definitely settled. Pittsburg, which got us into this trouble the last couple of years, is balking on taking her own medicine. Daylight saving has its good and bad points, but a greater desideratum is uniformity.

The recent big mail robberies have caused Postmaster-General Hays not only to offer $5000 for the arrest of a robber but to remark that "the West knows how to handle these criminals just as they used to in the old Wells-Fargo days."

The Chicago murdered who protested against being hanged by daylight saving time has been granted his last hour by a sixty-minute postponement. Probably he did not reflect that he had wilfully lost most of the hours of his misspent life.

When the movie producers of "Ben Hur" stage and photograph the big spectacle in Jerusalem some of those recently arrived Zionists still looking for a job may be glad to assist.

GUILD STUDIES NEEDS OF THE "NEAR EAST"

The Westminister Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Bess Richey Maxwell on Lookout avenue and the program of study was enjoyed by all present. After a business session, the conditions of the "near East" were considered and the land boundaries presented by Miss Helen Fleming. She gave a word picture of Constantinople that was complete in detail, and her question of mandatories over the different lands was fruitful of discussion. The place of America in the affairs of the Near East was presented by Miss Swan. The cost of colonizing and the troops necessary for such an enterprise, was conducted by Miss Swan. There are about fifty millions of people in the Near East and their needs are pressing," says the author of the study book. A social hour followed the program and the hostesses were Mrs. Maxwell, Miss Stella Baudoux, and Miss Bella Geho.

THE FRANKLIN

Less Expense, Less Trouble, Better Service

Franklin economy is enough in itself to justify your choosing a Franklin these days. New conditions have given a new significance to the familiar Franklin figures below.

Yet economy was never the only aim—nor the only good result, of the Franklin. The principles behind it were adopted, and continued, for the superior service they gave in other ways, too.

Light weight makes the Franklin easier and safer to handle as well as more economical of gasoline: flexibility makes it more comfortable as well as easier on tires: direct air cooling frees it from the annoyance as well as from the expense of radiator troubles.

Oldtime "Scour-Reed."

Growing in the romantic little ravine back of the main street at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., close by the house where once lived Admiral Farragut and at the bottom of a dell made famous by one of the paintings by the American water-color artist Jasper Cropsey, is a bed of green tubular jointed reeds known as the giant horsetail, or "scour-reed." Thereby hangs a tale, one of the geological romances of the earth. The giant horsetail is called "scour-reed" because in olden days wood workers, cabinet makers, etc., used it to polish their finished woolen products with, instead of sandpaper, which had not been invented. There is an old foundation near the bed of giant "scour-reed" which old inhabitants say was once a wheel factory. Perhaps the owner planted the giant horsetail reeds to use in his business, bringing them down to Sleepy Hollow or over from the Palisades, where they still grow. The reeds are rather rare, however.

Bull-Fighting in Japan.

In the district of Shikoku, Japan, they have bull fighting that is really bull fighting, and not a man versus bull. Instead of setting armed men on horseback to kill a bull, they match one bull against another in an exciting form of the sport that is seen probably nowhere else in the world. This diversion is Shikoku's very own, and it has been conducted in exactly this way for so long that its origin is lost in the mist of time. The people are very proud of the pastime and turn out in large numbers for the contests. The fighting bulls are carefully trained from calfhood for this very purpose. And pampered creatures they are, too, sleek and powerful. They wear pretty collars like pet dogs, the colors and texture varying. The public decides by acclamation which bull is the victor of the contest, which often is quite a bloody combat. The winner is then decorated with ribbons and for reward is given an extra fine dinner.

The Moth's Song.

In contrast with a host of buzzing relatives, the moths are a silent tribe. This makes the death's-head moth all the more conspicuous in having a voice with which it makes a sound something like a mouse's squeak, both can be heard at a distance of several yards. It appears from a recent scored investigation that while the cricket and cicada, and indeed all other musical insects, are comparable to fiddlers or other members of a stringed band, the death's-head moth really is a vocalist making its song with its mouth, on the reed pipe plan on which land animals depend. If the insects should get up a concert, the death's-head moth is the only voice they could muster. Was it the provocation of his name that made him find a voice and lift it up in protest?

Facts About Cocoa Tree.

The cocoa tree grows wild in Central America and South America and was cultivated in Mexico and Peru long before the coming of Columbus. It is a small tree a dozen feet or more high, with evergreen leaves and waxlike flowers which appear in clusters on the main trunk or large branches, so that the fruits are attached directly to the older parts of the tree rather than to the tips of the younger branches. The fruit, which ripens in from two to four months, is melon-shaped, nearly a foot long, yellowish-brown or purplish in color, and marked with about ten ribs. The cocoa beans of commerce are obtained from different sources grown on different varieties of cocoa trees, and the brands are blended as is done with coffee.

Drifting Trees Aid Traveler.

Great trains of driftwood, bound for the Arctic, forever sail the Mackenzie river, and the voyager who happens to be going along with this forest debris often presses it into service, instead of regarding it as an obstacle. The larger trees which retain their branches can be utilized to make progress against an up-river wind, for these submerged boughs are just as effective as an underwater sail. And there are lots of other advantages. By lashing to a suitable tree the traveler can cook his meals on the way, and if he wants to get forward by night his canoe may be secured to an Arctic-bound tree and he may go serenely to sleep while continuing the journey.

Do Mountains Creep?

Geologic observations in the Himalayan mountains have led to a belief that these great mountains the mightiest on the globe, are constantly moving sidewise toward the south, with a consequent crumpling of the Siwalik hills. It has been long known that there exists curious anomalies in the density of the earth and of the ocean bottoms and in the vicinity which would seem to verify the creeping theory, but it is difficult to make accurate observations. Journeys to the Thibetan country is forbidden to foreigners, even those who would like to visit the country purely in the cause of science.

The Last Word.

"A woman always has the last word," commented Mr. Growcher. "It isn't entirely her fault," replied Miss Cayenne. "Some men are too dull or too bashful to do a reasonable share in keeping up the conversation."

Exceptional Case.

"You will never succeed, my boy, if you watch the clock." "I don't know, sir. Father's a train dispatcher, and he's goin' to make me one."—Easton Transcript.

BIG CITY DIVIDED ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

The city of Pittsburg, which is responsible for the local "daylight saving" schedule, apparently, is not taking its own medicine. Reports today from that city are to the effect that some of the departments of the municipal government are following the new time, while others are adhering to Standard time. This condition appears to be the result of a political difference between the Mayor and City Council, the adherents of each branch following in the lead of their respective chiefs.

Mayor Babcock, it appears, is rather lukewarm this year on the daylight saving problem, while the councilmanic body standing by its action in farming and adopting the daylight saving ordinance. All the financial institutions as well as the schools of the city are following the new time; so are the business interests of the municipality, but the two divisions of the city government do not apear to be in accord on the proposition.

If Pittsburg expects the outlying communities to follow in its footsteps in the way of daylight saving the big town must set an example, and that example must be a unanimous adherence to one of its own local laws.

TWO LOCAL CARS WERE DAMAGED IN COLLISION

In a collision which occurred at Webster about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening the Studebaker car of Dr. H. A. Stahlman, and driven by Ralph Williamson, was badly damaged,while the Stevens car of M. M. Roth also suffered to some extent.

The accident happened at the turn near the approach to the Donora bridge, Mr. Roth accompanied by his wife being on the way home to Charleroi from Pittsburg, while Williamson and three companions were driving toward Donora. The Studebaker had an axle bent, a fender smashed and the steering gear badly damaged, while Mr. Roth's car had a light broken and some damage to a fender. Mr. Roth drove his car on home, while the Studebaker car had to be taken to the Woodward garage in Donora for repairs.

IN MOTHER'S MEDICINE CHEST are standard remedies which have stood the test of time—remedies which their mothers and grandmothers had used before them. Such is Lydia E. inkham's Vegetable Compound which for nearly fifty years has been helping the women of this country to overcome many forms of female ills; merit alone could have stood such a test of time and won such an enviable record.

BRING DAMAGE SUITS AGAINST LAND COMPANY

The Agnes Coal and Coke company is defendant in five suits filed in the Washington county courts growing out of the surface subsidence on properties in East Bethlehem township, alleged due to the mining and operation of mines by the defendant company under those properties. Each plaintiff claims $68,000 damages. In each instance complaint is made that a water well on the premises has been rendered useless.

COURT REFUSES NEW TRIAL TO DR. H. T. ELY

In an opinion handed down on Monday by the court, written by Judge James I. Brownson, before whom the case was tried, a new trial is refused Dr. H. T. Ely, of Washington, who was convicted of a statutory charge preferred by a resident of Washington. The defendant is directed to appear in court on Monday, May 2 ,1921, at 10 o'clock for sentence. The court holds that alleged after-discovered evidence is not sufficient to alter the situation as to require a different verdict.

LEAVE IS GIVEN TO AMEND STATEMENT

In the suit of I. B. Nixon against the estate of Thomas E. Lilley a claim for certain stock in the Lilley Coal & Coke company, valued at about $80,000 upon petition, leave has been granted to amend the plantiff's statement. The defense raised the point that he claim therein alleged was not set forth with sufficient certainty. The amendment is made to conform to this objection.

INDIAN COACH IS ROBBED OF MONEY

Charles Calac, a full blooded Sioux Indian, from Butte, Montana, on his way to Uniontown where he is to coach the football team of the Uniontown High, was robbed of his money in Connellsville last Thursday night, and had to seek lodging in the police station. The white man, in this instance, appeared to be too much for the Indian.

THIS IS THE SEASON TO SWAT THE FLY

"Swat the big 'winter' fly," is the slogan adopted by the State Department of Health for its early spring campaign against this dangerous pest. Dr. William C. Miller, Chief of the Division of Public Health Education stated today that the killing of one large fly at this time of the year means he elimination of millions of others during the latter part of the season.

"Flies," Dr. Miller stated, "have a tendency to hibernate during the winter. The females crawl under boards and into dark crevices in outbuildings and cellars, remaining there until the warm days of spring arouse their mission of perpetuating the species, and sally forth to find a suitable place in which to deposit their eggs."

"From the moment the maggot is hatched until the adult fly has launched upon its dangerous career, it lives in unspeakable filth. Habits inherited from a long line of ancestors remain with it throughout its entire life of from six to eight weeks. During this period it thrives on revolting foods and spreads deadly germs wherever it goes."

It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to assist at this season of the year on exterminating this "Messenger of Death."

WOMAN WHO "MADE GOOD"

Neighbors Are Not Going to See Any "For Sale" Sign Displayed at Her Farm Gate.

I remember how I hurried out of my seat at the window to take off my hat to her that day. Just a woman driving by with the farm team hitched to an old three-spring wagon. I can see her now. Five little chaps tucked around her. When was that? Well, never mind just how long. I know it was after Jim went away for the last time over the Long Trail. Jim brought her into our neighborhood from her job teaching school. She did not know a single thing about farming. Couldn't even milk a cow. Most of the folks said, when Jim got his call, "Well, that settles it. The farm will go to the dogs now. She never can make a go of it."

More than one of us made our plans to buy the place when the "for sale" sign hung on the tree in the front yard. Deacon Jones offered to take a couple of the boys, so that it would be a bit easier for the widow; but, no sir. She just gathered them all up a little closer about her and said, with a firm look round her mouth, "Thank you, deacon, but as long as He leaves us together we'll stick to one another!"

And they did. And now, well—they fought Jim's battle to the finish, and nobody has heard of the farm changing hands. That is what makes some of us feel a little bit ashamed. To be beaten by a woman—you wouldn't like it yourself.

They paid off the mortgage; they fixed up the house; they got better cows; they grew the best crops of anybody in the township. We have not seen the "for sale" sign on the tree. I don't think we will very soon, either. On the other hand, the widow and her boys have just added another eighty to their place.

There they go now! Let me get out before they are out of sight. A new car, sure as you are born, and Jim Junior at the wheel! That's fine! I'm just proud of them, even if they have beaten me all hollow. Only a woman! Thank God there are women of that kind in this old world of ours—lots of 'em; and they're the very salt of the earth!—Edgar L. Vincent, in Farm Life.

States Butterfly Ends Tuberculosis.

The French bacteriologist Metalnikow, in a report of his investigations which he has just presented to the Pasteur institute, states that for some time past he has been experimenting on the larvae of butterflies and moths, and he has, he declares, discovered that they have the power to destroy all the most dangerous known bacilli. He moculated them with diphtheria, plague, tetanus and tuberculosis, and found that however heavy the dose the bacilli did not live more than a few days in the larvae which seemed to contain germ-destroying juices. The bacillus of Koch, for example, which lives in the body of man for years after it once gets hold, was annihilated in the body of the larvae in two or three days.

The virality of the larvae, the scientist declares, is enormous, and he has not been able to find any bacilli which can obtain a hold on their bodies. Now he is endeavoring to isolate a serum of butterfly grubs with which he hopes to cure the world of tuberculosis.

Criminals Exploit Mentally Deficient.

Psychiatrists have long recognized the tendency among mental deficients towards criminality. It appears that this tendency is now being discovered and exploited by the criminal classes themselves. At a recent meeting of the Societe Clinique de Medecine Mentale, reports the London Lancet, Drs. Marcel Briand and Borel presented a boy, aged fourteen, who had on two occasions been used as a tool of a professional thief. It is clear that if this practice is at all widespread many mentally deficient children without criminal tendencies in the first place may very soon acquire them. These children, incapable of moral judgment as they often are, should be specially protected by society, which in defending them will at the same time be protecting its own interests.

BILL HART IS SOME SCRAPPTR IN NEW PLAY

Bill Hart is some scrapper, as everybody knows, but in his new paramount picture, "The Testing Block" which comes to the Coyle theatre Thursday and Friday for a two-days' engagement, he is a veritable superman. A straying minstrel band, with a lovely girl who plays the violin, winds through the trails of the California Sierras in the days of gold Mr. Hart is chief of the bandit gang They force the players to entertain them in the heart of the redwood forest. The half-savage outlaws are avid in their desire to capture the girl, and "Sierra" Bill, (Mr. Hart) forces them to fight him., one by one, for the right to claim her. He beats them all and then, himself half-crazed, seeks the girl and forces her to marry him. That is the beginning of a story of human tragedy and joy which unfolds in mighty sequence of compelling incidents.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wagner are spending a few weeks in Atlantic City, Philadelphia and New York.

Canadian Fisheries Important.

The Canadian fisheries produce about $50,000,000 a year, and the industry gives employment to about 100,000 people, with about 70,000 on the sea fisheries, 10,000 on the inland fresh water fisheries and approximately 20,000 engaged in canning, curing and otherwise dealing with the fish, according to a statement made by Prof. E. E. Prince, Dominion commissioner of fisheries. He further stated that there were some due varieties of Canadian edible fish, of which only about 150 were known, while hardly more than twenty were really important factors on the market.

Motor Ambulance for Sheep.

A motor ambulance especially designed for the care of sheep, and containing ten pens, five on each side, is an unusual but highly valuable adjunct to an enormous sheep ranch in Alberta, Canada. During the past season some 7,000 lambs were born on the ranch, and the busy ambulance was the means of saving the lives of hundreds of them.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Aesop's Hen Was a Goose.

Some "translators" of Aesop's Fables use "hen" for "goose" in the fable about the golden egg, but the Greek of the "text" is "clear," which looks like some combination of "xen" that really means "goose." The Latin translators or rather adapters, for the familiar word of the Vulgate is "goose." It must be remembered that there really is no original Aesop fable text, but only some later transcriptions of what came to be regarded as the fables told by the old slave.

Twenty-Toed Elephants in Demand.

Twenty-toed elephants are held in veneration throughout India, and are keenly sought by all the rajas and maharajas for the prosperity they are supposed to bring, says Charles Mayer, in Asia Magazine. They are guarded more carefully and quartered even more ceremoniously than the white elephants of Siam, and the price they will bring is determined almost entirely by the amount the rajas can gather together.

To the motorist who has quit guessing about tires—

THE U. S. NOBBY TREAD

Where the going is specially heavy with snow, mud or sand, in hilly country where maximum traction on the road is a factor, no other tire tread yet devised is quite so effective, or so wholly approved by motoring opinion, as the U. S. Nobby Tread.

Its very simplicity—two diagonal rows of oblong studs, interlocking in their grip on the road—is the result of all the years of U. S. Rubber experience with every type of road the world over.

ALONG about this time of year a man finds his motoring neighbors getting anxious about their tires. With folks expecting old tires to "pop" any minute, there comes the question of what kind of new ones to buy.

U. S. Tires are answering a lot of questions like this nowadays.

* * *

The U. S. Tire following embraces two kinds of tire buyers.

Those who started with quality first, and have never bought anything else but the quality standard tire.

Those who came to quality first only after dabbling with "bargains," "rebates," "job lot" and "surplus stock" tires.

* * *

Getting one hundred cents value on the dollar in tire buying is a straight-forward business proposition—not guess-work or a game of wits.

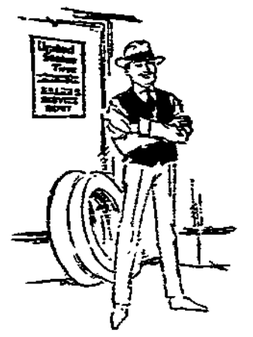
The most essential man for you to know today is the local U. S. Tire dealer who is concentrating on a full, completely sized line of U. S. Tires.

He gets his U. S. Tires straight from his neighboring U. S. Tire Factory Branch—one of 92 such Branches established and maintained all over the country by the U. S. Tire makers.

* * *

He is the man who can give you fresh, live tires—not stuff shipped to him from some point where it did not sell, but new tires of current production.

Giving the same quality, selection and price-advantage to the owner of the medium weight car as the big car owner gets. With equal service and buying opportunity whether he lives in the smaller localities or the greater centers of population.



"The most essential man for you to know today in the tire business is your local U. S. Tire Dealer."
